The Bush Jamoboree Book

"The idea for the book first came to me whilst bushwalking with my family on Magnetic Island. The sounds, scratchings and footprints we discovered in the bush made us wonder what the animals got up to at night. 'The Bush Jamboree' answers that question in lyrical, rhyming text!" - Author, Stacey Graham.

Books cost: $22.95 each and are full colour (40 pages). More info.

20 May 2013 Round About Townsville - Magnetic Island in 1926

Australian Screen has recently found this footage of an intertitle describing Magnetic Island – "only six miles from Townsville – introduces sepia-tinted images of passengers on board the daily service from Townsville. Another title card explaining Magnetic Island's beaches and picturesque thatched roofed bungalows precedes a green-tinted and toned sequence of the beach, thatched bungalows and tropical plants". □

On The Trail Of Some Curious Characters

Nathalie Fernbach from ABC North Queensland reports on the 2011 Magnetic Island Bay Dayz Festival

Scarecrow Trail.

The Snorkelling Scarecrow Story: "This is me (The Snorkelling Scarecrow) and Scarlett, I snorkelled out of the drain, that is what I am sitting on and why my hair is pink. I am no longer on Horseshoe Bay Road as some handsome highly intelligent person court my eye and now I am busy traveling the universe.

I've had a few dates. It all started at the Full Moon Party when I shake my toosh until the wee hours of the morning and end up at the bus stop where some nice local helped me find my way home.

The next weekend I was seen arm in arm with a bloke on the way to the beach front, it was a cold night and I feel he took a liking to my jumper as I was spotted canoodling on the beach, but amazing I was helped home where I was repaired, (minus my hair).

But my favourite passtime is to scare the local dogs, (the white small one are the easies to scare), thus avoid being urinated on. Bon-voyage!" - The Snorkelling Scarecrow
